Ten years ago, a 25th Anniversary edition included four new songs left off the original release: "Just The Time of Year," "Nowhere's Too Far For My Baby," "White Sugar" and "Day's Dawning." Most telling in listening to it today are the screams of sexual tension (thankfully low in the mix, but certainly audible) when he soulfully croons "I don't care if they cut my hair, all I want to be is by your side, yeah." With the release of "Frampton Comes Alive," now being celebrated in its 35th Anniversary by a worldwide year-long tour, people forgot the studio musician, the hard-rocking Humble Pie guitarist, only to focus on Peter Frampton, the super-duper-larger-than-life sex idol.
